

ROUNDTABLE

From Gender Policy to Implementation: Feminist Activists in Different Political Entities in Myanmar

Coordinator

Sanda Thant

Roundtable Description

Since the attempted coup, various political bodies have been established in Myanmar. Each of the bodies has established its own gender policy units. What is unique and exciting about Myanmar is that these gender units are linked socially and politically, regardless of the political affiliation of the mother body that they are under. This roundtable discussion will bring together the representatives of these gender units and share the common and different challenges that they face and the achievements so far. The synergies among these groups and perspectives are expected to give us a united front in the fight for gender justice in Myanmar.

The speakers are from National Unity Consultative Council (NUCC), National Unity Government (NUG) and Karenni Interim Executive Council. All are working on gender policy and try to implement the policies but face different challenges. Through the conversation, we aim to explore the opportunities of collaboration across various levels and political bodies.
